WEAVER Funeral services were held yesterday for , 76, president of the New Jersey Board of Tax Appeals, who died Friday of pneumonia. Wescott trained several lawyers who went on to distinguished careers in there own right, including , who for many years was a justice on the New Jersey State Supreme Court. Westcott was admitted to the bar in Connecticut in 1876 and in New Jersey in 1878.

Woodrow Wilsons eloquence

I went into the old Camden County Court House one day- I heard my future preceptor try a case. What earnest boy has not dreamed a future? I admired my own father greatly, and he, I discovered, regarded the militant young Judge not only as a friend, but as a heroic character.
