Before that, they gave 10 concerts under the direction of the 93-year-old Herbert Blomstedt, including performances in Greece and Malta; and 21 performances in August at the Salzburg Festival, conducted by Gustavo Dudamel, Franz Welser-Möst, Christian Thielemann, Joana Mallwitz, Andris Nelsons and Ricardo Muti. Wilder recalled reading about , a Danish inventor who had demonstrated a magnetic recording device for Franz Joseph I of Austria in the hope the Emperor would help finance his invention, and he and Brackett used this bit of historical fact as the starting point for their screenplay, which initially was titled Viennese Story. The question strikes home, and Virgil decides he loves Johanna too much to take a chance on ruining her life.
