The only writings of Quintus Cicero now existing are three letters to Tiro and one to Marcus Cicero, besides an Essay on Candidature for the Consulship, in the form of a letter to Marcus, written when he was a candidate for that office in 64 B. If the problem is ignorance, confusing the ignorant will not decrease their hatred.

The Oxford Anthology of Roman Literature

It has been suggested that the iambic parts are due to Pigres, who amused himself by adding them to a poem already in existence. These last were sometimes very numerous, when kings appeared with their body-guards, or generals led their armies or their hosts of prisoners upon the stage. New from Oxford World's Classics is Birch, ed.
