Kemper who was pastor of Providence 1920-1921, are listed as ordained ministers present at the First Baptist Church of Owenton, September 21, 1924, when the churches from the disbanded Concord and Owen Associations, along with the churches in the Ten Mile Association located in Owen County, came together and organized the Owen County Baptist Association. Each month, we post an update to notify our readers about the latest archival collections to be processed and some highlights of our print material acquisitions. The preacher, after ending his sermon, comes down from the pulpit and passes through the congregation, singing a hymn on some tender and affecting subject, with a tune of mournful sound, or, if thought proper, according to the mood of the people, with a tune of lively, cheerful sound, accompanying the singing with a shaking of hands and exhortations, with a great appearance of affection; working upon the passions by fabulous stories, and, by clash and noise and excitement, confounding the reason, and obtaining a soul-injuring ascendancy over their hearers; then asking whether some do not desire to be prayed for, and, after prayer, asking if they feel no better—whether some change has not taken place- whether some comfort has not been afforded to the mind; and then follows a loud-toned exhortation, until weak minds and soft, tender passions have been reduced to a state unaccountable to themselves.
