Origin and development of the law of the sea : history

Over his career, which spanned more than half a century, Kampelman defended the principles of the Helsinki Final Act, strengthened the Helsinki process, and fought to reduce—and later eliminate—nuclear arms. We have agreed to develop and implement the NRF with a view toward an initial operational capability for training of October 2004, and full operational capability by October 2006. Committee on Foreign Affairs: , also by United States. But I guess I would say that we have worked and our state department colleagues have taken the lead in this in working closely with the government in trying to make our position clear on a variety of issues that were sensitive to the Turks, as well as working on the economic side, the political side, and the military side of potential cooperation here.

Law of the sea resolution : hearings, Ninety-third Congress,

It should be clearly stated that we of the subcommittees do not propose that all ocean dumping be terminated. The nations of Europe and Eurasia continue to play a vital role in rebuilding a secure and democratically governed Afghanistan, with contributions of funds, military assets, supplies, humanitarian aid and infrastructure development.
