Homepage

Canada will support greater use of renewable energy, create opportunities for women within that sector, and help ensure that climate financing is equally accessible to woman-led initiatives and enterprises. When it comes to gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls, a more integrated approach is needed—one that also includes diplomacy, trade, security and the expertise of a wide range of Canadian government departments and agencies.

20 Advantages and Disadvantages of Foreign Aid to Developing Countries

To achieve this, we must address inequality. This is just one amongst many examples of what appears extremely welcome philanthropy and charity also having other motives. Canada's strategic aid priorities are strongly reflected in its contributions to World Bank-managed trust funds.

World Bank Group: 100 Countries Get Support in Response to COVID

An initiative begun in 2009 and financed by the Canada-United Nations Development Programme Climate Change Adaptation Facility has resulted in Cambodians better managing water.

Paris Climate Agreement: Everything You Need to Know

The growth in exports only partially compensated African producers for the loss of local markets and they were left worse off. Canada recognizes the importance of addressing water issues, including sustainable access to clean water, adequate sanitation and proper hygiene, and integrated water resource management.

Canada cuts aid as other nations push assistance to all

It is time for CIDA to re-establish balance between the physical infrastructure and social programs it supports.
