Bell, saying: My colleagues in the Government join with me in expressing to you our sense of the world's loss in the death of your distinguished husband. Having lost her hearing after a near-fatal bout of close to her fifth birthday, she had learned to but her father, Gardiner Greene Hubbard, Bell's benefactor and personal friend, wanted her to work directly with her teacher.

Alexander Graham Bell

In a magazine interview published shortly before his death, he reflected on the possibility of using to heat houses.

Although the offer was made by George's mother and followed the year-long arrangement in 1872 where her son and his nurse had moved to quarters next to Bell's boarding house, it was clear that Mr. That demonstrated to Bell that only one reed or armature was necessary, not multiple reeds.
