The bill was signed by Governor Fallin on May 16, 2012 and goes into effect November 1, 2012.

West Virginia Poverty Rate

Some apply to all applicants; others include specific language that there is a reason to believe the person is engaging in illegal drug activity or has a substance use disorder; others require a specific screening process.

Welfare reform in West Virginia (2004 edition)

If an applicant tests positive the person is ineligible for benefits for one month and until he or she tests negative. Missouri passed requiring the department to require a urine drug test for all applicants and recipients of TANF for whom they have reasonable cause to believe based on screening that they are engaged in illegal use.
