

Reassessment of the Bronze Age cemetery-barrow on Itford Hill, East Sussex, and its place in the prehistory of southeast England

Bournemouth University School of Conservation Sciences - The Prehistory of Britain and Ireland (Cambridge World Archaeology)

Description: -

-

Violence on television.

Violence -- Research -- United States.

Itford Hill Site (England)

East Sussex (England) -- Antiquities.

Mounds -- England -- East Sussex.

Bronze age -- England -- East Sussex.

Excavations (Archaeology) -- England -- East Sussex. Reassessment of the Bronze Age cemetery-barrow on Itford Hill, East Sussex, and its place in the prehistory of southeast England

-

Information circular (United States. Bureau of Mines) -- 9189

Michigan. State University, East Lansing. Dept. of Communication.

Project VIM [i.e., Violence in the media] research reports -- no. 2.

Research report / Bournemouth University, School of Conservation

Sciences -- 2 Reassessment of the Bronze Age cemetery-barrow on

Itford Hill, East Sussex, and its place in the prehistory of southeast

England

Notes: Includes bibliography: p38-43.

This edition was published in 1996

Filesize: 36.101 MB

#revealed #in #Hampshire

Tags: #Bronze #Age #barrow #cemetery

The Archeology of Identities

This conceptualization of culture contributes to the assertion of a congruency between territorial contiguity and ethnic unity across a historical stage — a mosaic of discrete spatially and temporally bounded, monolithic entities.

The Archeology of Identities

American Journal of Sociology 52: 393—400. In the wealthier cemetery the main distinction structuring tomb wealth was sex and to a lesser degree age. Examples of what might be comparable is represented by the site found by chance under the Roman fort at Künzing Deggendorf on the Danube in Lower Bavaria, 110 or the very large site at Unterhaching near Munich.

European Societies in the Bronze Age (Cambridge World Archaeology)

Scholarly interest in the period had been on the increase for years prior to 1994; there has been a vast outpouring of publication on Bronze Age matters in the last twenty years. The Study of Ethnicity in Historical Archaeology.

European Societies in the Bronze Age (Cambridge World Archaeology)

A unique double digging-stick from 1 Recent works have covered most of this ground in general outline: Fowler 1983; Thrane 1990. Herculeine Barbin: Being the Recently Discovered Memoirs of a Nineteenth Century Hermaphrodite.

Related Books

- Fishery science - its methods and applications
- Mande blacksmiths - knowledge, power, and art in West Africa
- Life insurance - a textbook
- Bedouin love, law, and legend - dealing exclusively with the Badu of Beersheba
- Documentos básicos sobre derechos humanos.