

Hawkers in Southeast Asian cities - planning for the bazaar economy

International Development Research Centre - Anon Chaimanee

Description: -

-Hawkers in Southeast Asian cities - planning for the bazaar economy

083e.

IDRC (Series) ;

083e

IDRC ;Hawkers in Southeast Asian cities - planning for the bazaar economy

Notes: Microfiche. Ottawa : International Development Research Centre, 1977. 2 microfiches ; 11 x 15 cm.

This edition was published in 1977

Filesize: 7.101 MB

Tags: #the #Concept #of #the #Street #Vendors' #Management #in #the #Border #Area

Anon Chaimanee

Following the classic 1963 study by the anthropologist, Clifford Geertz, economists and city planners began to take notice of street traders 8. The main reason for this is that the poorer sections of society feel closer to them. Satay sold on the five-foot way was about two cents a stick, and a bowl of Hokkien mee was ten cents.

the Concept of the Street Vendors' Management in the Border Area

This study employed both a survey and participant observation methods. Urban Development and Architectural Typologies in Luang Prabang under the Western Influences during Period of the Colonial State. Penataan Pedagang Kaki Lima Kuliner Untuk Mewujudkan Fungsi Tata Ruang Kota Di Kota.

Street Hawkers of Singapore's Past

Both of them promoted bachat bazaars and allocated space for them.

the Concept of the Street Vendors' Management in the Border Area

Of all the traditional leaders of Micronesia, there are but a few who are reasonably conversant in English, which is the language of government. That they mostly operated in the municipal areas became a major sore point with the colonial administrators. Hawking is also seen to be a temporary measure of survival whilst awaiting better opportunities in other economic sectors.

Related Books

- Way we were, 1900-1914
- Staatsarchitektur der Weimarer Republik
- Coran et les femmes
- Interest group politics in America.
- Pattern of diabetes.