Are we, then, powerless to regulate multinational corporations? The cost of doing business is much lower, in part due to the fact that there are few environmental regulations and very little government regulation, once the proper business permit is acquired. As a consequence, if it can be expected as a normal feature that the product sold by the company has been made in compliance with human rights when it has not, the product is not in conformity with the sales contract. As such, there is a need for a framework according to which businesses can decide whether or not it is appropriate to heed a given call.
