An Art Nouveau Architecture Tour Of Glasgow, Scotland

The proceedings in a word were not epoch making. Then the Gallery of Modern Art was built in 1996. After they lost the tramway franchise in mid 1894, they continued to run horse-drawn omnibuses in competition with the Corporation trams but they were fighting a losing battle because the Corporation trams ran much more smoothly and the fares were cheaper.

The McPhee Family

Here are two more white Standard trams in Phase IV condition, seen at the University Avenue terminus of Service 3 from Moss Park, most probably in mid-1938. Kirkwood of the Liverpool Scottish Volunteers reached 44. John Cuthbert 1921 Garscube H.

Undiscovered Scotland: Timeline of Scottish History: 1900 to 1950

It was called the Tron and it gave its name to the Trongate. In the late 18th century cotton spinning became a major industry in Glasgow. We again held meetings at Dunoon on Glasgow Fair Saturday and Monday along with the local club, and we regret to state that, owing to miserable weather on the Saturday and Monday, there was a considerable loss on the venture.
