100% Marine Phytoplankton Powder

The specific strains included in our Phyto Synergy were painstakingly chosen. Certain species of phytoplankton, especially in the genus Nannochloropsis were first identified in the early 1980's and since then have been extensively researched in Europe for their industrial applications beneficial for aquaculture, biofuel, cosmetics as well as for nutritional supplementation purposes. Phytoplankton communities are usually quite diverse, with typically several dozens of species.

The main one used to create most marine phytoplankton liquid or freeze-dried powder is the Nannochloropsis gaditana species because of its high nutritional profile and ability to accumulate nutrients, especially omega fatty acids. This information and content has not been evaluated by the FDA and is absolutely not intended to cure or prevent any disease. It helps you by addressing the following culprits.
