The Member will be aware of the free weekend travel on the TrawsCymru network, which was designed with a view of enhancing and improving the availability of transport so that we can get modal shift away from cars. It's not easy to change those speakers into Basque speakers, and, so, it's a long-term venture and a very exciting one, and that's how we should view it.

This exchange is the final one in Llyn to reach the trigger level, and could now be expecting ADSL no sooner than September. So, basically, we owe the museums that money, so we'll be looking to find it from underspends elsewhere.

HCPC publishes annual report on our Welsh language obligations

To do that, you have to have a very clear vision from the centre, I would argue.

HCPC publishes annual report on our Welsh language obligations

You're really onto this issue, now, in terms of speakers as opposed to usage, which I think is a massively not-properly-thought-out issue. But that softer work is supposed to be part of the Government's activities.
