Initially, Lysia shoos them away—they are disturbing her preparations for Nico.

Risque Play Creates Its Own Drama / Sex comedy riles Contra Costa College

Michael Gottlieb's lighting rig takes the LED strips that were used for high side lighting Off Broadway and places them on the edge of the set's second level, using them for kicky color chases during the musical numbers, and he has added an upstage wall of lights that produces a number of lively wipes and other effects; this is his Broadway debut as a designer - he has been an assistant on several other shows -- and he instantly establishes himself as a distinctive talent. Lindsay Nicole Chambers is fun as Robin, who unexpectedly finds herself part of the in crowd, and Liz Mikel adds plenty of soul-sister attitude as Hetaira, who is both a madam and a representative from Mount Olympus.

Classicizing Chicago: Atlas

Josh Segarra's thousand-watt smile and skill at throwing away lines are put to excellent use in the role of Mick, who tangles with Robin, a feminist librarian and poetry slammer.

Lysistrata, American River College Theatre at Online/Virtual Space, Performance

The new comedy depicted Athenian society and the social morality of the period, presenting it in attractive colors but making no attempt to criticize or improve it.
