marxism

May 5 is the birth anniversary of Karl Marx, who together with Frederick Engels founded the doctrine of scientific socialism. Modern socialist consciousness can arise only on the basis of profound scientific knowledge. There is no consensus, indeed there is exceedingly sharp polarization, regarding the relationship of science either to philosophy or to history.

Marxism and Radical History

Why did the Hungarian proletariat only produce as 'hardened' leader a Bela Kun -- for whom Trotsky never has enough scornful irony? But within each of these categories, there are many levels of effects.

marxism

Parenthetically, let me explain that I have used the word Marxist in a fairly liberal sense, at least on the historiographical level, including virtually everyone who called themselves Marxist and situated their problematic within the Marxist tradition.

The Marxist Conception of History

I am ready for the next act.
