

Rural industrialization in Tanzania - a case study of ten co-operative enterprises

Economic Research Bureau, University of Dar es Salaam - Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

Description: -

-
Great Britain -- Directories.
Subculture -- Directories.
Soviet Union -- Intellectual life.
Rural industries -- Tanzania -- Case studies.
Rural development -- Tanzania -- Case studies.
Small business -- Tanzania -- Case studies.
Producer cooperatives -- Tanzania -- Case studies.
Rural industrialization in Tanzania - a case study of ten co-operative enterprises

-
80.8
E.R.B. paper ;Rural industrialization in Tanzania - a case study of ten co-operative enterprises
Notes: Bibliography: p. 35-37.
This edition was published in 1980

Filesize: 15.25 MB

Tags: #Gender, #cooperative #organisation #and #participatory #intervention #in #rural #Tanzania #: #a #case #study #of #different #types #of #cooperatives #and #Moshi #University #College's #support #to #rural #women

Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

To my Father Pinile for his encouragement, my young sisters and brothers, and a special mention to the late Georgia Pinile who was taking care of my family and unfortunately died during my studies; and all relatives for their material, moral and emotional support during difficult times of grief.

Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

Feminist epistemology is a form of knowledge production that is socially situated and grounded in marginal lives or people Haraway 1991, Harding 1993. Consistency means that information should be checked and re-checked for different settings or cases, where possible using different methods to triangulate results.

Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

THE CASE STUDIES OF SEMI-FORMAL WOMEN-BASED COOPERATIVES SF-WBCS.

Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

These transformation strategies and methodologies cover provision of assistance, partnership, self-reliance, cooperation and participatory intervention Vijayanthi 2002. . .

Gender, cooperative organisation and participatory intervention in rural Tanzania : a case study of different types of cooperatives and Moshi University College's support to rural women

This chapter also provides a further review of the literature to operationalise the aspects to be addressed, such as the strengths and weaknesses of cooperation and participatory interventions in general.

Related Books

- Sipure Hefah
- Marcel Dubé à la recherche du personnage.
- Humphry Davy - life beyond the lamp
- Biological chemistry - the molecular approach to biological systems
- Scriptural and serious.