Raqraḡat al

Connecting with Latino children: Bridging cultural gaps with childrens literature. Since the Islamic expansion of the mid-7th century, most Arabians have been Muslim. Their story reflects the relationship not only between man and woman, Copt and Muslim, but also between Upper and Lower Egypt.

Kharrāt, Idwār 1926

They are as various as women can be; there is Mona his neighbour, Susu the schoolgirl at the tram-stop; there is the Madonna he encounters in the potters' yard. As well as the tribulations of childhood, he experiences greater and more mysterious tragedies; disappearances are unexplained; indecipherable messages pass in looks and smiles; initially baffled and horrified by the secret world of men and women, he comes to understand, not without grief, the terrible things they do to each other and to themselves. If BACI includes randomization, we refer the reader to the gold-standard above.
