THERE IS NOT ONE MENTION OF CHRISTIANITY.

Statistics on child abuse

Has the NSPCC learned from its past mistakes? A child might be left hungry or dirty, or without proper clothing, shelter, supervision or health care.

Child abuse and neglect

If corroboration were ever needed of our fear that ordinary social workers, Christian activists, therapists, teachers and most untutored people who work with kids will completely misread and mis-apply the Government's 'Witch-Child Action Plan' the unquestioning way it was reported in the influential Nursery World makes the fact utterly clear. There are striking similarities in the Rochdale case, in which, over six months, 20 children have been taken from their families by a team of NSPCC and local authority; social workers and police officers and made wards of court; Fifteen are in care; five have been returned but are wards of court.
