Sunday work; seven pamphlets, 1794

Most of what I just described is gone, as are most of the people, with too few replacements. You know what they say about New York Cheesecake? Correspondence from Cozens' lawyer, Jeremiah Sullivan Black, a copy of a letter, 1867, from Andrew Johnson disapproving the findings of the court's conviction, some of Cozens' account sheet, and a memorandum book, 1864-1871, complete the collection. Jane, the youngest of the three children born to Alexander Morrison and Isabella Allan, was named after her paternal grandmother Jane Thomson 1771-1848.

Other family members are represented by small groups of miscellaneous papers: Clement Biddle, 1776, 1813, mostly as deputy quarter master for the Pennsylvania and New Jersey militia; Benjamin Rush, 1768-1810, with letters from Alexander Leslie Lord Balgonie and others; and Julia Stockton Rush, 1813-1840, on social and family matters. The Brilliant had sailed from Leith the previous afternoon. Included, too, are some papers of three naval officers whose careers brought them to Philadelphia: James Madison Frailey, personal copies of orders and circular letters reflecting his commands on the blockading squadron during the Civil War, 1861-1866, and his commissions, 1851-1870; James R.
