Primary health care systems and services for the twenty

The purpose of this article is to describe the use of Facebook and LinkedIn social media sites in the recruitment of nurses for an online survey, using a 5-week modified online Dillman approach. The image of the acute hospitals could be favourably projected; however, local as well as national difficulty persisted in the recruitment of candidates to Cinderella services such as tuberculosis sanatoria. Most of this activity is concentrated in Delhi, Bangalore, and Kochi.

In addition, a snowball method was applied for recruitment, where directly-contacted respondents provided additional names of graduate mates or sent them the invitation. For recruitment, as well as retention, improving the image and reputation of nursing along with improvements in work-life balance were pre-requisites for meeting the challenging target of an additional 20,000 nurses on the wards by 2004.
