Calhoun, Charles W., ed. The Human Tradition in America: 1865 to the Present.

Douglas, a Supreme Court justice and environmentalist; and Harvey Milk, the first openly gay elected municipal official member of San Francisco's Board of Supervisors. For this reader, series editor Charles Calhoun has carefully selected biographies of individuals whose lives highlight important themes from this dynamic period of history. These brief biographical sketches stress to students that history is created by people, making the subject appealing and vibrant in a way that just names and dates in a standard textbook cannot.

Human Tradition in America from 1865 to the Present / Edition 1 by Charles W. Calhoun

For this reader, series editor Charles Calhoun has carefully selected biographies of individuals whose lives highlight important themes from this dynamic period of history. The editor writes that the latter two themes became especially complex after 1865 because of many factors, including increasing modernity, the transformation of the American economy due to the Industrial Revolution, increased immigration, and the rise of the United States as a world power. Designed as a text for the second half of the U.
