Kaidou Shun

He is the shortest boy in his class, standing shorter than most of the girls as well. But it is a bōjutsu kata, and these always share techniques, though performed in different habits according to the various schools.

Tokumine no Kon (Bojutsu Kata Series)

Not long after Kyan brought back the Tokumine no Kon to Okinawa Main Island, this tradition was handed down in the Kadena area and also had a significant impact on the bōjutsu of the nearby villages.

Tokumine no Kon (Bojutsu Kata Series)

The admission fee was devoted to help cover the construction costs of the Southern Islands Butokuden. Since Tokumine Pēchin moved to Yaeyama, without noticing, the Tokumine bōjutsu in the Shuri neighborhood became extinct. This first tile-roofing house of Miyara still remains today, and is the house where Hiroshi Oji grandson of Gisa has been living with his wife.

Kaidou Shun

I just hope that what the god said about him maybe becoming isolated because of his strength doesn't come true and that it stays light-hearted. I hope yep i really hope a lot that we will get to see more loveydoveyness then the one i said.

Japanese

Like in many other cases of kata a retrospective naming seems to have taken place to honor the source of the tradition. What matters is who you are now and who you'll be in the future! According to these, his son Hobuta as well as his grandson Hiroshi were in fact the masters of bōjutsu in Miyara village. It is also said that Tokumine bōjutsu went extinct both in Shuri as well as in Yaeyama.

Kimura, Kan 1966

To his surprise he was discovered by his slave driving manager, Igarashi Kyouka, who further explains their role in this world.

Japanese

The kata in question is called Furi-bō. The given history strongly suggests that this bōjutsu only later became known as Tokumine no Kon, in the sense of constituting what was understood as the core of Tokumine bōjutsu.

Tensei Kizoku no Isekai Boukenroku ~Jichou wo Shiranai Kamigami no Shito~ (Title)

His son Hobuta 1882-1974 even went to Naha and paid a large amount of money to learn bujutsu from Tokeshi Ushinukajī. And other than the karate kobudō sources claim— i. Kyan Chōtoku gathered the youth of the island for diligent instruction.
