Compulsory primary education programme as well as mass education programme should be made more effective through local government and community support.

Rural Community Development Requires Clever Use of Resources

The project shows tremendous potential to remain strong and continue to produce economic growth in the community. In the case of urban constituencies where there are no Gram Panchayats , the MP will identify a gram panchayat from a nearby rural constituency. This is done by developing the economy through the existing potentials in that area.

Rural development

In order to realize the opportunities that urbanization offers and to successfully resolve its accompanying challenges, a combination of several initiatives is needed. Moreover, the importance of rural development lies in the fact that the government aims to increase rural expenditure.

Single Family Housing Programs

Some expressed concerns included a lack of transportation to this isolated region and the high cost of gas. As a result, it is necessary to investigate competencies of extension professional and how that leads to better delivery of extension services for a sustainable rural development.
