Merrill - The Strategic Teacher Selecting The Right Researchbased Strategy For Every Lesson PDF Book

Description: -

- Direct instruction is a teacher-centered strategy in which you (the teacher) are the major information provider.
- The direct instruction model includes presentation and recitation, as well as teacher-student interactions.
- Aspects of the direct instruction model will vary depending on the audience—a lecture presented to younger learners will differ from one presented in a college classroom, taking into account the audiences' differing attention spans, interest levels, and motivation.
