Metaphysics (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy)

Kant saw rationalist philosophers as aiming for a kind of metaphysical knowledge he defined as the —that is knowledge that does not come from the senses it is but is nonetheless about reality synthetic.

Early Example of A Metaphysical System

It would, moreover, fly in the face of the fact that there are and have been paradigmatic metaphysicians who deny that there are first causes—this denial is certainly a metaphysical thesis in the current sense—others who insist that everything changes Heraclitus and any more recent philosopher who is both a materialist and a nominalist , and others still Parmenides and Zeno who deny that there is a special class of objects that do not change.

What Is Metaphysics?

It is not their business to raise the further question whether, among the various beliefs on this subject that various peoples hold and have held, this one or that one is true.

Platoâ€™s Middle Period Metaphysics and Epistemology (Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy)

A form is the perfect and truest instance of a particular idea. At the heart of that rejection is the view that although reason is unavoidably motivated to seek the unconditioned, its theoretical efforts to achieve it are inevitably sterile. It may be easier to conceive together in this way individuals and universals that to conceive together the absolute power of the transcendent with the absolute necessity that is the other side of transcendence.

CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA: Metaphysics

The Third stage is in realising that the is , that there is no difference between the Self and the Absolute. If it is natural both to pair and to oppose time and space, it is also natural to pair and to oppose the mental and the physical. Plato next turns to the lower segment of the intelligible portion of Line: In this subsection, the soul, using as images the things that were imitated before, is forced to investigate from hypotheses, proceeding not to a first principle, but to a conclusion.
