Letters to Milena Quotes by Franz Kafka

With Milena in the role of travel angel, Kafka takes on the job of letter magician. After earning a law degree in 1906, he worked for most of his adult life at the Worker's Accident Insurance Institute in Prague. And if, for reasons unknown to me, you might not want to go to Bohemia, then somewhere else, maybe even Meran would be good.

Letters to Milena by Franz Kafka, Paperback

I know in my heart that I appreciate your ability, your talent, so this shying away from your works may be an outcome of awe or fear, I don't know which.

Letters to Milena. (1962 edition)

As he repeatedly states in his letter to his father: nurture aside, we inescapably are who we are. Basically it is nothing other than this fear we have so often talked about, but fear spread to everything, fear of the greatest as of the smallest, fear, paralyzing fear of pronouncing a word, although this fear may not only be fear but also a longing for something greater than all that is fearful. That is why he is exposed to everything we are protected from
