MilSurp: German Military Handguns of World War II

Under local laws, he could escape prison altogether as jail terms of two years and under are automatically suspended for those without a previous criminal record in Spain.

The Spanish

Talk about the right kind of problem to have! These pistols were sold under a wide variety of trade names, which make Ruby and Eibar pistols practically a bottomless pit when it comes to trade names.

Spanish Eibar/Ruby Pistols

The oldest of the three by a year, Llama-Gabilondo y Cia SA, best known as Llama, dated back to 1904 when the company ran under the banner of its two principal gunsmiths, Gabilondo y Urresti.

CETME Ameli

I believe that sometime during that long gap in 900 Series production - from 1941 to 1949 - the Eibar proof house decided to standardize the locations of proof stamps, and since most guns proofed there were stamped on their left sides, that's where they'd stamp those last 900s as well. Many Ruby-types were plagued by poor finish and incorrectly hardened parts which after a short period of use wore so badly that pistols fired on full-auto. Manufactured from 1986 to 1997.

The Spanish

Pistols during that time were most commonly badges of rank or tools of execution.

Spanish Double Gun Slip

In 1915 Gabilondo sent examples of the pistols to the French government, who were hard-pressed for all sorts of small-arms, even in this early stage of the war. That year code could be an X, which would be 1952. Mark of admission to proof.

Star Firearms: Dating your Star Pistol with Proofmarks

All in all it is said that nearly a million pistols and revolvers were made in Spain for the French Military. .

Spanish cops say gun dug up in John Gilligan's yard 'cannot be conclusively linked' to Veronica Guerin killing

Omni III Manufactured approximately 1980—1986.
