World War II marked the apogee of industrialized 'total war'. Mobilization extended to virtually every sector of every nation. The author explores individual atrocities in their broader social, psychological, and institutional milieu and places Japanese behavior during the war in the broader context of the dehumanization of men at war-without denying individual and national responsibility.

Staff view: War crimes and collective wrongdoing :

By contrast to World War II, postwar death and destruction has been comparatively small. These include crimes committed in China and Korea particularly the activities of the infamous Unit 731 , crimes committed against comfort women, and crimes associated with the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the conventional firebombing of other Japanese cities and the illicit drug trade in China.
