HIV/AIDS

Healthcare in South Africa South Africa is currently experiencing a third wave of COVID-19 infections. This fact coupled with the lack of any effective preventative therapies or treatment, meant that there was a reluctance to be tested for the virus. With AIDS seemingly under control and the threat to heterosexual America apparently abated, the world's focus shifted belatedly to the emerging pathological cyclone decimating the populations of sub-Saharan Africa — in Angola, Botswana, South Africa, and Kenya, thousands of children were being orphaned daily by the deadly virus.
