His religious poems speak of shame, fear and self-conscious complexity and doubt, but his sermons can soar into a word-music seldom equalled, or can condense theology into epigrams as witty as those which date from his youthful lusts. Edwards retired as Provost of Southwark Cathedral in 1994. But he is also a poet of the spiritual journey.

John Donne : man of flesh and spirit

Scanning my bookshelf, I note an Anglican author who celebrates an Anglican Donne; a Catholic who discovers a crypto-Catholic Donne; a Catholic-turned-Anglican who admits to a guilty, apostate Donne; a Lutheran who enforces Donne's Lutheranism; a Calvinist whose Donne capitulates to the Genevan's lex terribilis; a skeptic for whom Donne doubts; an atheist for whom Donne feigns piety; a feminist whose Donne worships Sophia; and so on. He takes twentieth-century research and criticism into careful account but aims to provide more than a detailed examination of a limited part of the subject. This book merely reinforces the already muddled body of Donne scholarship.
