In Defense of NATO : The Alliance's Enduring Value, Hardcover by Dunn, Keith ...

It needs to set real military requirements and really meet them. However, this focus on meaningless metric of burden sharing has been shaped by the past actions of NATO Ministers and previous U. Our allies and partners provide complementary capabilities and forces along with unique perspectives, regional relationships, and information that improve our understanding of the environment and expand our options.

NATO needs to return to the kind of serious force planning and focus on military strategy that shaped the NATO force planning exercise in the 1960s, the deployment of the GLCM and Pershing II, and the planning for MBFR and the CFE Treaty. Scholars typically contrast two competing dimensions of strategic cultures in the West since the end of World War II:

NATO Matters: Ensuring the Value of the Alliance for the United States

It therefore underwent major internal reforms to adapt military structures and capabilities to equip members for new tasks, such as leading the UN-mandated International Security Assistance Force ISAF in Afghanistan. In addition, the debate was broadened to invite the interested public, as well as experts, to contribute. Beijing has exploited these fissures within and between allies repeatedly.

NATO At Forty; In Defense Of NATO: The Alliance's Enduring Value

At present, however, many of its units lack the readiness to move as effective combat forces, its submarines are partly operational at best, along with half of its Leopard 2 tanks. The Administration and Congress can undertake initiatives now to support that strategy, establishing better economic, social, cultural, and security relationships with other free-market democracies of geostrategic importance to the United States.

Enduring Alliances Empower America's Long

It has been the greatest guarantor of democracy and defender of capitalism. NATO members should use their bilateral relationships to pressure, rather than reward, Hungary and Poland, including by withholding foreign direct investment. This does not include the tens of thousands more wounded.
