17 amazing facts about Madagascar, the island it took humans 300,000 years to discover

Gerald Durrell and his wife, Lee, lead an expedition to the island to bring pairs of the endangered species into captivity and to start a breeding programme in their Jersey zoo. The post can not be retrieved once it is deleted.

MADAGASCAR

LEE McGEORGE DURRELL: I was living in Madagascar doing field research for my dissertation in zoology.

Gerald Durrell

We explored several places around Morondava and did a road trip along the highlights of the RN7! It is a rectangular length of cloth wrapped around the body, and different designs are worn for different occasions. So I thought this is taking a turn for the better, and the better, and the better. So - rather wearily - I said: 'What's that? The first person I called was a great doyenne of Madagascan studies, and I asked her: 'Do you know a girl called Lee McGeorge? I'd like to set up a studio of animal communication in Jersey.
